Nina Wilcox Putnam, writer and novelist, in an article entitled "A Jitney Guide to the Santa Fe Trail" in this week's Saturday Evening Post, indicates this National Old Trails Road with the foregoing itinerary through Columbia as among the best of coast to coast trails.

The road indicated from St. Louis to Columbia and thence to Kansas City is the Old Trails Road which runs through Boone County and Columbia, and begins the eastern terminus of the romantic old Santa Fe Trail.

The author passed through Columbia in the fall of 1920 on a transcontinental tour and at that time liked the city so well that she remained here for two nights and a day. Women students in the School of Journalism gave an entertainment for her on this visit. At that time she expressed enthusiasm over Columbia and surrounding territory.

In speaking of her itinerary she says: "These are comfortable jumps that any average driver can make and are based primarily on the fact that excellent hotel accommodations can be obtained in all the places mentioned." She describes this section of Missouri as being "chiefly interesting for its succession of beautiful little cities, which are unique."

In her article she gives several columns of well-balanced advice gained from experience concerning what to wear and what equipment to take along. In speaking of clothes for women she says that nothing exceeds the comfort and utility of riding trousers.

She gives the following as a good list for a woman to follow in supplying herself with clothing for a coast to coast trip:

- 1 Gray-brown-mixture tweed suit.
- 1 Medium-weight topcoat.
- 1 Pair low-heeled Oxford ties.
- 6 Very plain tailored shirt waists for use in the East.
- 1 Silk crepe dress, high necked.
- 1 Khaki-colored flannel shirt, boy's model.
- 1 Small motor hat.
- 1 Boy's tweed cap, with visor.
- 1 Plain black evening gown, of uncrushable silk.
- 1 Pair of dress slippers.
- Driving gloves.
- Khaki riding clothes.
- 1 Pair high boots, of the type known as Pioneer.
- 1 Rubber fishing shirt.
- Small compact toilet roll.
- Underwear, and a pair of goggles.

For the equipment she says that four chains, a strong tow rope, a five gallon water bag, an ax, a folding shovel, a large tarpaulin, a can of gasoline, camp stove, and one large luggage bag for each person are essential, and that it is best to carry the least possible baggage outside of this.

COLUMBIA MAY NOT HAVE
PLACE ON PRIMARY ROAD

Route Suggested by Globe-Democrat
Disregards Possibilities of Town.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat in an editorial called "Victory Highway To Date" suggests as a desirable route for travel east of Kansas City to St. Louis a road running through Warrensburg, Sedalia, Tipton, Jefferson City, Fulton, Montgomery, Wentzville and St. Charles to St. Louis. If this plan is carried out it will blast Columbia's hopes for a place on the principal road through Missouri.

The editorial tells of the Victory Memorial highway which is to connect the two oceans. All roads have been selected from the Pacific Coast to Kansas City and most of them have been chosen that are to be the links between the Mississippi east to the Atlantic. The road between Kansas City and the eastern boundary of Missouri remains to be chosen.

THE WEATHER

For Columbia and vicinity: Mostly warm and unsettled tonight and Saturday, probably with occasional thunder-showers.

For Missouri: Partly cloudy and somewhat unsettled tonight and Saturday; possibly local thundershowers east and north portions; not much change in temperature.

The highway so far laid out starts from San Francisco and runs through Reno, Salt Lake City, Idaho Springs, Berthoud Pass, Denver and Topeka to Kansas City. From Philadelphia and Baltimore on the east it runs west to Columbus, Dayton and Indianapolis.

The writer points out that whether the route suggested through Jefferson City and Fulton is carried out depends partly on the eligible stretches of road first selected for paving and hence on the State Highway Board, but chiefly on the local initiative and influence in towns that want to be on the road.

Y. M. C. A. WILL AID FRESHMEN

Development of "Big Brother"
Movement to Be Most Noticeable Act.

The Young Men's Christian Association has formulated several of its chief plans for next year, according to Gilbert James, president of the organization.

J. H. Banks of St. Louis, state secretary, and John Montgomery of Sedalia, both members of the state Y. M. C. A. committee, were here Wednesday to discuss the financial situation of the organization.

One of the first things the officers have planned to do when school opens in the fall is to start a "Big Brother" movement, the chief purpose of which is to get hold of the freshman and acquaint him with University life and traditions. Members of the Y. M. C. A. will be assigned to two or three new men apiece for the first days of school, helping them register and showing them about town so that these newcomers will feel more at home. The older men will be responsible, like brothers, for the welfare of these men during their first year in school. Ralph Reed will be chairman of this committee.

Meetings for members only will be arranged on Sunday, but night meetings will also be held when a social hour and entertainment will be enjoyed.

The open forum, with Clarence Lockwood as chairman, promises to be much larger next year. Many prominent speakers will be brought here during the year and a proposed three-day University meeting, similar to the Sherwood Eddy meeting of two years ago, will be one of the main features of this phase of the work.

"And most important of all," said Gilbert James, "we will have a good strong Y. M. C. A. house organization, with every man in the house a member of the Y. M. C. A."

Swimming-pool privileges will be free to members.

Prof. F. E. Hoffman, faculty representative, and Joe Reed, representing the students, left today for Hollister, Mo., where a Y. M. C. A. Conference is to be held from June 9 to 19. This conference brings together delegates from all the Y. M. C. A. organizations in the southwestern states to discuss important problems and serves as an inspirational meeting.

Mr. Hoffman and Mr. Reed expect to bring back additional plans for the local Y. M. C. A. to use, especially relating to the speakers who will be brought here at different times throughout the year.

SENIORS HEAR DR. ELLWOOD

Missouri School of Social Economy
Graduates 37.

The commencement exercises of the Missouri School of Social Economy, which is conducted in St. Louis by the University of Missouri, were held last night. The class was addressed by Dr. C. A. Ellwood, professor of sociology.

Prof. Ellwood told the graduating class that the world in which they were called upon to work was not an ideal one socially. "The philosophy that dominates most men is the philosophy of give and take," he said. "I believe the war has taught us more of the value of service."

He said there were some indications that a moral renaissance was approaching. There were thirty-seven in the graduating class.

INCREASE IN WATER SUPPLY
IS EXPECTED

Columbia Flow Is Now 40
Per Cent Greater—New Wells Will Add to Supply.

DEPTH TESTS ARE MADE

Dr. E. B. Branson of Geology
Department of University
Supervises Examinations.

An increased flow of 40 per cent has been obtained and further increase will be made by the addition of two wells to the city water supply, work upon which is now in progress at the city plant north of town.

Well No. 4, which has been out of commission for some time, due to a shale cave-in 300 feet from the top, is being repaired and an experiment in depth drilling is in progress. The original depth was 827 feet, but it is expected that the well will be drilled to 1200 feet. A cave has been put in to prevent future trouble and the drilling yesterday has progressed to 874 feet.

Claude Brown, chief engineer for the city light and water department, said yesterday that tests were being constantly made under the direction of Dr. E. B. Branson of the geology department of the University. A pump will be put down at 925 feet and the water of the well tested in order to ascertain at what depth the best water for Columbia may be obtained. Nine hundred feet is the average depth for the wells, though other towns around Columbia including Centralia, Mexico and Fulton, have wells from eleven to thirteen hundred feet in depth. Recent tests show that the amount of solid in the water here is fourteen grains to the gallon. This is mostly lime. River water averages twenty-three grains.

The five wells now in operation are barely enough to supply the city, but with the completion of old well No. 4 and the new wells which will be constructed as soon as work on the present well is completed, a surplus for the city will be assured. Perry Crossman, who has built two other wells for the city, is working with two helpers. Work was delayed several days last week on account of some iron tools being lost in the well.

September 1 has been given as a possible date for the completion of the wells.

INDIAN MAY PERFORM HERE

Former Service Man Who Eats Anything to Be Here Monday.

William Bartell, Canadian Indian, who is said to eat and swallow anything from steel ball bearings to soda pop bottles, will be in Columbia Monday, during which time he will demonstrate his abilities to the people of this city, providing his manager can find a suitable place to present the performances. An attempt was made to stage the performances at the Columbia theaters, but the managers were not of the opinion that the demand was great enough to merit an engagement.

Bartell has just completed a series of performances in Sedalia, where he met with success. He will go to Booneville Monday and will return to Columbia again next week.

During the war he was the youngest man in the Allied forces in the trenches, according to his manager, Bartell, at that time, was 14 years old and was with the Canadian army.

According to his manager, he eats glass, sand, pebbles, steel ball bearings, collar buttons, cuff links and rings; he hangs by his hair and neck; and dances barefooted on broken glass and on boards driven full of nails. He also pierces his arms with hatpins and apparently experiences no pain.
